THE COLORADO SPRINGS SCHOOL TO HOST TAEKWONDO ELITE Free demonstration for the entire family to experience

Colorado Springs, Colo. – The Colorado Springs School (CSS) will welcome an elite team of Taekwondo Masters from Korea on Friday, July 25, 2008 for a free demonstration of the Martial Art and Official Olympic sport. Master Jay Lee, a CSS alum, will lead the demonstration of high level breaking, self defense techniques, and creative forms choreographed to music at 6:30 p.m. in the Louise Honnen Tutt Field House on The Colorado Springs School campus. All families in the greater Colorado Springs area are invited to enjoy and learn from the 12 Korean masters touring the United States.

As the son of the first Head Coach of the U.S. Olympic Taekwondo team, Master Jay Lee was destined for a career path in the martial arts. As Director of Operations for U.S. Taekwondo Center, with three Schools (Dojangs), Lee's proficiency in the family business currently reaches more than 800 students of the martial arts. But before building his professional career, Lee and his three brothers took the initiative to develop their academic repertoire as students at The Colorado Springs School. Lee credits his success at Boston College to the opportunities he participated in while enrolled at CSS. As active participants in sports, student council, and the experiential education program, the Lee brother's illustrious college careers also boast attendance at Harvard University, Columbia University School of Law, University of Pennsylvania, Tufts University, and Stanford University.

"The Colorado Springs School community is proud of the outstanding regional and international leadership exhibited by our alum, Jay Lee. His focus on respect, discipline, and living purposefully are in keeping with many of the character values that CSS promotes in our programs," said Kevin Reel, Head of School at the Colorado Springs School.

"It is my pleasure and honor to return to my alma mater for this demonstration," said Master Jay Lee, "Not only will attendees experience the complexities and beauty of the Taekwondo, but it will also afford attendees the opportunity to view the amazing campus at The Colorado Springs School and visit with Admissions staff."
